

CLAIMS

What is claimed is:

1. A new and distinct variety of pecan tree substantially as shown and described herein, the new variety having a sturdy upright sparse tree showing small leaves and twig bits having a semi-dwarf type growth, the new variety being disease and insect resistant with excellent hardiness exhibiting a later bloom than the Stuart variety and an earlier maturing fruit, maturing about 14 days earlier than the Stuart variety, the fruit being of excellent kernel quality with bright meat and a heavy oil content.